

Island Harvest Offers Free Consultation for SNAP Assistance and other resources to all Long Islanders Impacted by COVID-19 health and financial crisis

LONG ISLAND, NY – March 26, 2020 - During this unprecedented health crisis, Long Island's Island Harvest is working hard to provide necessities and resources for those who are most susceptible and vulnerable during this emergency. Island Harvest provides free referral and free consultation and assistance for SNAP benefits over the phone, and you do not have to go to the Department of Social Services. Island Harvest can walk you through the online application by telephone or complete a short intake and submit the online application for you.

For example, working families/individuals who are now finding themselves underemployed or unemployed. Seniors and people with disabilities, who find themselves with limited resources due to the financial crisis. Call Island Harvest even if you think you do not qualify. Taisha Freeman, SNAP and Community Resource Supervisor, taisha@islandharvest.org or 631-873-4775 Extension (207). A prolonged period without a paycheck can often mean the difference between choosing to eat, or pay other obligations such as rent, mortgage, utilities, or even medicine. Call now free assistance.

The Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, SNAP, formerly known as food stamps, is an entitlement program that provides people with the money they need for food. Eligibility for SNAP is based on income, however Island Harvest SNAP Coordinators are able to screen, as a complimentary service, all prospects and clients to help determine what services are available to you during this critical time.

Island Harvest SNAP Coordinators are available to speak with clients over the phone at their convenience. They are able to help clients in English, Spanish or Creole. Once completed, all SNAP applications are then submitted to the local offices at the Department of Social Services, who review the applications to ensure the information is accurate and a representative will call each client for a phone interview. This process can take 30 days from start to finish.

SNAP is only one of the many services the Island Harvest team is able to connect clients to. Often clients have additional concerns outside of food. During each free referral screening, Island Harvest will be able to provide referrals to clients to local food pantries and other community resources (housing, furniture, employment, education, etc) that are available across Long Island. For further information about this program, please contact Taisha Freeman, SNAP and Community Resource Supervisor, taisha@islandharvest.org or 631-873-4775 x 207.
